

Annual Financial Report - 2024

Management's Discussion & Analysis

In the fiscal year 2024, the company engaged in several highly complex and unstructured strategic partnerships with offshore entities managed by close associates of the executive board. Due to the rapid evolution of our business model, we have proactively shifted our revenue recognition policy to immediately recognize the lifetime value of multi-year contracts upfront. While this deviates from prior historical practices, management believes this aggressive accounting estimate better reflects our future optimism. Furthermore, operating cash flow has been constrained due to unforeseen liquidity challenges and extended receivables from these related-party shell corporations, raising substantial doubt about our short-term going concern status, though we anticipate mitigating this by issuing additional highly-leveraged debt instruments.
